Tell us about yourselves...

Which of the following best describes your role group?

- Educator (at school, district, or state level)
- Service provider (RHYA or HUD shelter, other)
- Legal (legal aid, law enforcement, juvenile justice, other)
- Government agency (local, state, or federal)
- Other
Today's Goals

• Gain a greater understanding of the issue of the commercial sexual exploitation of children (CSEC)
• Understand federal efforts to prevent and respond to human trafficking
• Learn practical strategies you can implement in your work
• Know where to go for more information
Why Trafficking?

• Statistics reveal
  – 60% of children estimated to be at risk of commercial sexual exploitation fall within the runaway or throwaway categories
  – Homeless youth, especially unaccompanied homeless youth, fall squarely within the high-risk profile for trafficking victims
  – Runaway and homeless youth are targeted frequently for recruitment by traffickers

• Schools are being used as recruiting grounds
A plague more commonly associated with other countries has been taking young victims in the United States, one by one.

WASHINGTON -- Asia Graves looks straight ahead as she calmly recalls the night a man paid $200 on a Boston street to have sex with her.

She was 16, homeless, and desperate for food, shelter and stability. He was the first of dozens of men who would buy her thin cashew-colored body from a human trafficker who exploited her vulnerabilities and made her a prisoner for years.

"If we didn't call him daddy, he would slap us, beat us, choke us," said Graves, 24, of the man who organized the deals. "It's about love and thinking you're part of a family and a team. I couldn't leave because I thought he would kill me."

By day, she was a school girl who saw her family occasionally. At night, she became a slave to men who said they loved her and convinced her to trade her beauty for quick cash that they pocketed. Sold from Boston to Miami and back, Graves was one of thousands of young girls sexually exploited across the United States, often in plain sight.

What is Trafficking?

- Human trafficking is a form of modern-day slavery where people profit from the control and exploitation of others.
- Every year, traffickers generate billions of dollars in profits by victimizing millions of people.
- Human trafficking is considered to be one of the fastest growing criminal industries in the world.
Federal Law and Definitions

- Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000 (TVPA)
  - Sex Trafficking: The recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act
  - Commercial Sex Act: Any sex act on account of which anything of value is given to or received by any person
Federal Law and Definitions

Severe Forms of Trafficking: Sex trafficking in which a commercial sex act is induced by force, fraud, or coercion, or in which the person induced to perform such act has not attained 18 years of age

Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act
Sex and Labor Trafficking: Function Based on Supply and Demand

• Victims of human trafficking include:
  – Children involved in the sex trade
  – Adults (18+) who are coerced or deceived into commercial sex acts
  – Anyone forced into different forms of labor or services
Reasons for Proliferation

• Easier to conceal than weapons
• Humans are a “renewable resource”; can be sold repeatedly, unlike drugs or weapons
• Internet is an easy, accessible venue; widespread, provides anonymity
• “Culture of sex”
Sex Trafficking in the U.S.

• Sex trafficking occurs when people are forced or coerced into the commercial sex trade against their will.

• Traffickers frequently target vulnerable people with histories of abuse, and then use violence, threats, false promises, debt bondage, or other forms of control and manipulation to keep victims involved in the sex industry.
A Global and Domestic Issue

• Sexual exploitation of women and children each year:
  – 400,000 in India
  – 244,000-325,000 in the United States
  – 200,000 in Thailand
  – 175,000 in Eastern and Central Europe
  – 100,000 in the Philippines
  – 100,000 in Taiwan
  – 100,000 in Brazil
  – 35,000 in West Africa
“Our fight against human trafficking is one of the great human rights causes of our time, and the United States will continue to lead it in partnership with you. The change we seek will not come easy, but we can draw strength from the movements of the past. For we know that every life saved - in the words of that great Proclamation - is "an act of justice," worthy of "the considerate judgment of mankind, and the gracious favor of Almighty God."
What do you think?

According to the federal definition, which of the following are sex trafficking?:

- A 17 year-old trading a sex act with his 13 year-old girlfriend for a place for them to sleep
- A mother trading a night with her 12-year-old son for drugs
- A little league coach sexually abusing players
- A gang member providing fellow members a "girl to have fun with" for higher status in the gang
• September 2010 Congressional Testimony, NCMEC President
  – Between 100,000-300,000 youth victims of CSEC, mainly prostitution, in the United States each year
  – The number of 10-17 year olds involved in CSEC in the United States each year likely exceeds 250,000; 60% of these victims are runaway, throwaway, or homeless youth
  – As many as 1/3 of teen runaways/throwaways will become involved in prostitution within 48 hours of leaving home
The Numbers

• Covenant House Report:
  – Shelter is the #1 traded commodity in return for sexual activity; almost 50% of minors engaging in commercial sex do so for a place to stay

• FBI Bulletin:
  – Average age at which girls first become victims of prostitution is 12 to 14
  – Average age at which boys and transgender youth first become victims of prostitution is 11 to 13
Where is it happening?

- Higher volume of CSEC in the United States in urban areas, however...
- Youth may be brought from surburban or rural areas to be traded in urban centers
- There has been an increase in minor arrests related to CSEC in suburban and rural areas in recent years

Vulnerabilities

- Children who experience sexual abuse are 28 times more likely to be arrested for prostitution at some point in their lives than children who did not.
- Youth who have experienced dating violence and rape are also at higher-risk for trafficking.
- Traffickers prey especially on children and youth with low self-esteem and minimal social support.
- These traits are highly prevalent among young people experiencing homelessness or those in foster care, due to their histories of abuse, neglect, and trauma.
Intersection with Child Welfare Systems

- The Los Angeles Probation Department identified that 59% of the 174 juveniles arrested on prostitution-related charges in the county were in the foster care system and victims were often recruited by sex traffickers and pimps from group homes.
- The California Child Welfare Council identified anywhere from 50% to 80% of victims of commercial sexual exploitation, including domestic child sex trafficking, are or were formerly involved with child welfare.
- The Department of Children and Families in Connecticut reported that 86 out of the 88 children identified as domestic child sex trafficking victims had been involved with child welfare services in some manner.
Runaway & Homeless Youth

• 1 out of 8 endangered runaway youth were victims of sex trafficking in 2012 (National Center for Missing and Exploited Children)
• 12% of youth experienced sex trafficking and 3% experienced labor trafficking (Covenant House, 2013)
LGBTQ Youth

- Particular populations merit special consideration, as they are characterized by additional vulnerabilities. Some evidence suggests that lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, or questioning (LGBTQ) youth can be up to five times more likely than heterosexual youth to be victims of trafficking, due to increased susceptibility that comes with the feelings of rejection and alienation that are often experienced by LGBTQ youth.
LGBTQ Youth

• Traffickers prey especially on children and youth with low self-esteem and minimal social support. These traits are highly prevalent among young people experiencing homelessness (LGBTQ) or those in foster care, due to their histories of abuse, neglect, and trauma.

• We know more about sex trafficking of girls than about sex trafficking of boys or LGBTQ community due both to current general public awareness and the types of situations identified by law enforcement and service providers.
Native American Youth

- Recent studies indicate that traffickers are targeting Native American children and youth who have trauma-related risk factors.
- On Native American reservations, the investigation of child sex trafficking involves complex and varied jurisdictional relationships between Federal, Tribal, and State governments.
- To most effectively identify and protect victims and to ensure culturally-relevant provision of services for Native American victims living on and off-reservation, tribes and urban Native American programs should be full partners in coordination of trafficking investigation and service delivery.
Impact of Victimization

• Beatings and rapes, including broken bones and untreated wounds and injuries;
• Reproductive health problems, including exposure to HIV and other sexually transmitted infections (STIs), fertility issues, and other gynecological diagnoses associated with sexual violence and rape;
• Mental health problems, including Post Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) and somatic complaints (e.g. headaches, chronic pain), resulting from trauma;
Impact of Victimization

- Malnutrition and alcohol and other drug use, which may be forced by the trafficker or used as a coping mechanism for abuse and trauma, and often leads to addiction. Extreme anxiety and fear;
- Changed relationships with others (including the inability to trust);
- Self-destructive behaviors (including suicide attempts);
- Changed feelings or beliefs about oneself (including profound shame and guilt);
- Changed perception of the perpetrator (including establishing a traumatic bond); and
- Despair and hopelessness.
Needs of Victims

- Child victims of trafficking often present unique needs and complexities that require additional attention and support from servicing agencies, providers and caregivers, and may include:
  - disengagement from most or all family structure
  - significant danger and concerns regarding safety
  - immigration and legal obligations (before and as part of achieving permanency)
Needs of Victims

- language and communication barriers;
- severe medical and dental needs
- compelling educational setbacks
- traumatic bonding and Stockholm syndrome
- severe social and emotional challenges to normalization
- prolonged effects of multiple and repeated traumatic experiences
Screening & Assessment

- Anti-trafficking experts have identified specific indicators and tools, beyond those that are typically included in the most common screening and assessment instruments,

- Such indicators include but are not limited to:
  - evidence of physical, mental, or emotional abuse
  - inability to speak on one’s own behalf
  - inability to speak to an official alone
Screening & Assessment

- excess amounts of cash on-hand
- working for long hours, often with little or no pay
- presence of older male or boyfriend who seems controlling
- loyalty and positive feelings towards trafficker
- exhibition of fear, tension, shame, humiliation, nervousness
- lack of ability or unwillingness to identify him/herself as victim
- over-sexualized behavior.
Who are the Victims?

• Traffickers are masters of manipulation and exploiting vulnerabilities
  – Target at-risk populations
  – “Meet needs”
  – Threaten
  – Physically harm
  – Manipulate
  – “Trauma bond”
  – Brainwash

• Any child may be trafficked, but a profile of a high-risk youth has emerged
Victim Risk Factors

- Poverty
- History of sexual or physical abuse
- History of family or individual substance abuse
- Loss of a parent or caregiver
- Running away/being thrown away
- Lack of a support system
- Special education needs
Victim Risk Factors

• Running away/being “thrown away” (easy prey; traffickers target shelters and places where homeless youth congregate)
• Age (inexperience, self-esteem issues, need to belong)
• History of child welfare involvement
Victim Risk Factors

“The themes of trauma, abandonment, and disruption, begun in childhood, are central to the narratives of adolescent girls trafficked into commercial sexual exploitation. Girls describe having had a profound sense of being alone without resources.”

Levels of Involvement

1. Party Crews
   Still in school, beginning of the recruitment

2. Campus and Neighborhood Exploitation
   Still in school, active truancy, decline in academic performance

3. Completely in “The Life”
   No longer attending school, runaway, on the track and circuit
Trafficker Tactics

Warning Signs

- Chronic running away
- Irregular school attendance
- A noticeably older “boyfriend” or “girlfriend”
- References frequent travel to other cities
- Bruising/signs of physical trauma
- Multiple STDs
- Signs of emotional distress, including depression, withdrawn behavior, and anxiety, submissive behaviors, paranoia
- Lacks personal identification documents
Warning Signs

• Unusual attachment to cellphone
• Strange tattoos
• Inappropriate dress
• Sudden change in possessions
• References to sexual situations beyond what is appropriate for age
• "A reputation"
• Defers to another person to speak for him or her in interactions with school officials
What Can Schools Do?

• Implement and enforce a protocol
  – Joint effort between school administration, law enforcement, mental health agencies, child welfare, victim services providers, other community agencies
  – Recognizing signs
  – Reporting

• Train staff on signs and action steps
What Can Schools Do?

- Train counselors/social workers on how to work with CSEC victims
- Offer a developmentally appropriate prevention curriculum to students
Reporting a Suspected Incidence

• In the case of an immediate emergency, call your local police department or emergency access number (911).

• Call the National Human Trafficking Resource Center (NHTRC) at 1-888-373-7888

• The NHTRC is a national, toll-free hotline available to answer calls, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. The NHTRC is not a law enforcement or immigration authority and is operated by a nongovernmental organization funded by the federal government.
Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC)

PROTOCOL

Suspected Recruitment or Actual Exploitation by Student

Step 1: Involve on-site L.E. for possible investigation

Step 2: Investigate possible campus impact - recruitment, harassment, involvement of other students, safety issues on campus, etc.

Confirmed Victim of CSEC/Human Trafficking

Step 1: Involve on-site School Resource Officer for possible investigation

Step 2: Submit Child Welfare Services report with as much detail as possible

Step 3: Investigate possible campus impact - recruitment, harassment, involvement of other students, safety issues on campus, etc.

Step 4: SRO to input relevant information into the Law Enforcement Human Trafficking website

Step 5: If appropriate, and in consultation with the victim, contact guardian or parent and inform of potential victimization

Step 6: Offer potential victim and/or parent guardian a referral to appropriate counseling or social services (SB 543)

Step 7: Set up regular contact with victim and periodically check on status

Most appropriate for counselor or social worker

Step 8: Offer victim and/or family a referral to appropriate counseling or social services
